

Excerpt from Community Recreation: Suggestions for Recreation Boards, Superintendents of Recreation and Community Recreation Workers With the formation in June, 1906, of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, there began an organized, systematic effort to help cities throughout the country establish year-round recreation systems on a permanent basis, supported by funds raised through taxation and administered by municipal departments under the direction of paid superintendents of recreation. Statistics on the recreation movement compiled by the Playground and Recreation Association of America for the year 1918 show that there were 129 cities having year-round recreation systems with over sixteen hundred workers employed the year round. In the great majority of instances the work was publicly supported. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
