

A tale of terror from the collection Insomnia: Paranormal Tales, Science Fiction, and Horror. So what if Chris Stephens couldn't sing a note on key save his life? He plays a hell of a lead guitar. Unfortunately, his neighbors are getting a might tired of listening to his jam sessions. What he needs is a more secluded venue in which to practice. Enter Alex Alger, the tall, dark-haired, pale-skinned stranger who maybe looks more than a little like Death warmed over. On the plus side, he's got his own place where the band can jam. And the neighbors won't complain, because they're dead and buried. Sure, it's a little creepy practicing in an old crematorium next to the town's Potter's Field, but Chris'll do whatever it takes to keep his rock & roll dream alive. Anything. An excerpt from Raise the Dead: "If I had listened what Mama said, I'd be at home today. Being so young and foolish, poor boy, let a rambler lead me astray." from the old English ballad, Rising Sun Blues. Not recommended for readers under age 14. Also includes an excerpt from the high-tech thriller series GAMELAND.
